MISSOULA--

Applications are being accepted for 1979-80 participation in the National Student Exchange Program at the University of Montana.

Sophomore and junior students at the University may apply for the program, which allows them to study at an institution in another state without paying out-of-state tuition.

Marilyn Parker, coordinator of the program at UM, said that both UM students and students from other universities benefit from the program by experiencing the different academic, social and environmental atmospheres of another campus.

Forty-five universities and colleges from 33 states participate in the exchange program.

Information and applications are available at the UM Admissions Office, Lodge 222. Applications, a $10 application fee and two faculty recommendations should be submitted by Feb. 28.
